

Young found guilty of murder, arson and robbery of Thomas Max Martin

After three days of an emotional trial stemming from the execution-style murder of Thomas “Max” Martin and subsequent burning of his home and body, one of Martin’s killers, Johnathan Young, has been convicted and awaits final sentencing from Monroe Circuit Judge Eddie Lovelace, while the other person charged with the slaying, Jesse Parke, is still awaiting trial.

Officials first learned of the crime after an early morning 9-1-1 call reporting a house on fire at 1600 Hope Road in the northern part of Monroe County. When firefighters arrived on scene, they noticed a vehicle in the driveway and immediately began taking precautions to preserve as much of the scene as possible in case the owner of the vehicle was still inside the structure. When firefighters were finally able to enter the remnants of the home, they located a badly burnt human body and immediately contacted the Monroe County Sheriff’s Office. Sheriff Roger Barlow, who was a deputy at the time, responded to the scene, contacting and requesting the assistance of the Kentucky State Police.

KSP Detective Michael Dubree, who lives in Monroe County, arrived on the scene shortly after being dispatched from KSP Post 15 in Columbia, and quickly located what appeared to be two bullet holes in the skull of the victim. Positive identification of the body was impossible due to the damage inflicted by fire and heat; however, officials knew that the residence had been occupied for several years by Martin. The body was taken to the Kentucky Medical Examiner’s Office in Louisville to obtain positive identification and determine cause of death, and Dubree contacted Martin’s son, Marty, to get a DNA swab for comparative analysis. A criminal investigation was opened and the hunt for Martin’s killers began in earnest.

Dubree and fellow KSP Detective B.J. Burton first learned that Young and Parke had been at Martin’s home the night of the fire early on the morning of Au-

Relay for Life celebration set for Friday

The annual Monroe County Relay for Life will be held this weekend at Darrell Carter Stadium (the Monroe County High School football field).

Everyone is invited to attend part or all of the 12-hour Relay for Life, according to members of the county Relay Committee.

Since Relay is a fundraiser for the American Cancer Society, cancer survivors, caregivers and anyone else whose life has been touched by cancer in any way are especially invited to attend.

There is no admission charge for this event.

“It’s a great time for a good cause,” said Wendy Smith and Sandra Roderick, co-chairs of the Monroe County Relay Committee.

“There’ll be plenty of food and lots of good entertainment, along with some serious moments as we honor cancer victims,” they said. “It’s also a time to socialize with friends, so come join us and spend the evening.”

Activities for both adults and children are scheduled throughout the 12-hour Relay, plus entertainment and a variety of games. Live music also is planned at various times throughout the night.

Sandwiches and other concessions will be available, as well as educational information about cancer.

Opening ceremonies are scheduled at 6:30 o’clock, but all cancer survivors are asked to check in between 5 and 6:15 p.m. at the Survivors’ Tent, located near the entrance to the field, so they can be recognized following the opening ceremonies. Free refreshments also will be available there for the survivors.

Other activities start at 5:30 p.m., with music by local talent, plus a cornhole tournament and a team challenge tug of war. Until 7 p.m., the public also can purchase luminaries (candles in paper bags) in memory or in honor of cancer victims, to be lit dur-

Why we Relay...

Ask Brenda Walden why the fund-raising efforts of Relay for Life are important and she’ll give you a very personal answer.

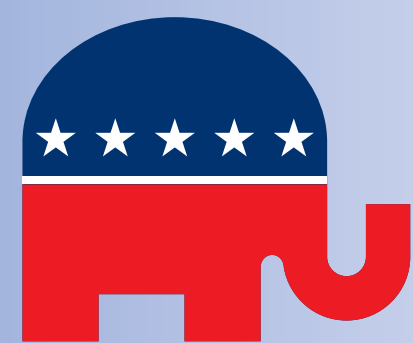

She’s certain the research which those funds help finance is the reason she’s a cancer survivor.

When Monroe County’s Relay for Life convenes Friday night at Darrell Carter Stadium, you can find Brenda at the Survivors’ Tent, registering other survivors so they can be recognized later that night. She’s been helping with Relay as co-chair of the Survivors program since 2008.

Brenda’s battle with cancer began in August 1979, when she noticed that a mole on the back of her left calf was red, ir-

LOCALS ASKED TO HELP WITH CANCER RESEARCH EFFORT

Residents of Monroe County and surrounding communities are asked to take part in a historic study that could help prevent someone from being diagnosed with cancer in the future.

Men and women between the ages of 30 and 65 who have never been diagnosed with cancer are needed to participate in the American Cancer Society's Cancer Prevention Study-3 (CPS-3).

The opportunity for residents to enroll in CPS-3 will take place at the Relay For Life of Warren County at Bowling Green High School on June 1 between 5:30-9:30 p.m. These volunteers will help researchers better understand the lifestyle, environmental, and genetic factors that cause or prevent cancer.

To enroll, individuals complete two steps, one in person and one at home. As part of the in-person enrollment, individuals complete a brief written survey, have their waist measured, sign an informed consent, and give a small blood sample, a process that will take about 30 minutes. The individuals will then complete a more comprehensive baseline survey at home, which will take about 45 to 60 minutes.

Over the course of the study — which is anticipated to last 20 to 30 years — participants will be asked to fill out follow-up surveys that will be sent to their home every few years.

For more information or to learn how to become involved with CPS-3, visit cancer.org/cps3, email cps3@cancer.org, or call toll-free 1-888-604-5888.

Community Leadership
group now meeting,
invites new members

Tompkinsville/Monroe County Community Leadership, a group formed following the leadership classes held in Tompkinsville this past year, is now meeting monthly to generate and develop community improvement projects.

Anyone interested in the needs of and opportunities for Tompkinsville and Monroe County is invited to attend these meetings. The next meeting is set for Thursday, May 24, at 6 p.m. at the Board of Education conference room.

At the April 19th meeting, those attending heard updates on the Work Ready Communities program, PRIDE and Beautify Downtown efforts, and the “Leader in Me” program at Gamaliel Elementary School.

County Judge/executive Tommy Willett discussed the county’s application for Work Ready Community status, with representatives of the Barren River Area Development District on hand to field questions about this program.

The Kentucky Workforce Investment Board and the state Education and Workforce Cabinet have developed this program which certifies counties as “work ready” based on the quality of their labor force.

The judge said a committee is completing the process to secure this certification for Monroe County, which will show employers and prospective employers that the local workforce has the talent and skills necessary to staff existing jobs and to master the innovative technologies new jobs will require in the future.

To become certified, counties must meet criteria in six areas, including high school graduation rate, National Career Readiness Certificate holders, demonstrated community commitment, educational attainment, soft-skills development and digital literacy.

Tompkinsville Mayor Jeff Proffitt reported that the PRIDE cleanup in Tompkinsville was successful, with 93 volunteers picking up 150 bags of trash, and that Beautify Downtown efforts are continuing within the City.

He also said he and Mike Turner, Housing Authority director, are researching and evaluating public housing from an economic development standpoint.

Christie Biggerstaff, principal at Gamaliel Elementary School, told the group that GES received a grant to implement the “Leader in Me” and is in within the third step of this training. This program aims at unleashing each child’s potential and serves as a model for transforming the entire school, with results that include higher academic achievement, fewer discipline problems and increased engagement among teachers and parents, she said. She encouraged all the other schools — and this Community Leadership Group — to participate in this program.

Cecilia Stephens with the Board of Education reported that Operation Preparation, a college and career readiness program for 8th and 10th grades, may be expanded to other grade levels.

For more information about this Community Leadership group, contact Mayor Jeff Proffitt at 487-6776 or email him at jproffittmayor@yahoo.com.

2012 TRI-COUNTY Electric holds annual meeting

Approximately 1,000 people participated in Tri-County Electric's Annual Members Meeting on Thursday, May 3, at Clay County High School in Celina, Tennessee.

Ronald Bailey, director of District C, welcomed everyone to the meeting. Paul Thompson, executive vice-president and general manager of Tri-County Electric, introduced business and political leaders as well as other Tri-County Electric partners, including TVA. During the business meeting David Callis, executive vice-president and general manager of the Tennessee Electric Cooperative Association, and Bill Corum, president of the Kentucky Association of Electric Cooperatives, addressed the members.

During his report, Executive Vice President and General Manager Paul Thompson thanked the members for their attendance and support of Tri-County Electric. He highlighted the theme of this year's Annual Meeting - "A Powerful History: a future built on a strong foundation"; reported on Tri-County Electric's strong financial position and the fact that as a local member-owned cooperative the revenue generated is reinvested through system upgrades, maintenance and expansions; and remarked on Tri-County Electric's involvement throughout our service area in many areas including economic development, school based programs and local civic organizations.

Many members took advantage of free blood pressure checks and information provided by Cumberland River Hospital, and information booths were also set-up by TVA and the Clay County Chamber Partnership. Denny Whalen and Robert Hollingsworth were very popular and busy; Denny as the caricaturist and Robert airbrushing names on the free T-shirts given to children.

Tri-County Electric provided information on its products and services and members could also take bucket truck rides and observe the safety demonstration.

Numerous door prizes were awarded during the evening's activities, including the Grand Prize 2005 Chevy Silverado 4x4 won by member-owner Daniel Cohen of Red Boiling Springs, Tenn. Tri-County Electric's logo was displayed on the umbrellas given to members at registration, and as mentioned earlier, each child was given a Tri-County Electric T-shirt.

Bonnie Phelps of Burkesville was the winner of the $100 drawing to begin the meeting and Caleb Weir of Celina, Tenn. was drawn as the winner of a new Dell laptop. Caleb is the son of Robert and Monica Weir. Tri-County Electric also donated an identical computer to Celina K-8 where Caleb is a kindergarten student.

As required by the TCEMC bylaws, a meeting of the Board of Directors was held immediately following the Annual Meeting. Officers elected were President, Jack Osgatharp, District R; Vice-President, Tommy Thompson, District H; Secretary-Treasurer, Ray Goad, District L.

Palace hosts volunteer appreciation luncheon

Palace Care and Rehab in Red Boiling Springs Tenn. recently hosted its annual Volunteer Appreciation Luncheon. "Some do individual volunteer work and other volunteers come as a group. Their contribution is multi-faceted and meets many personal needs of our population."

Volunteer work in a health care facility may include individual room visits, reading, crafts, aromatherapy, hand massages, and pet therapy. Group volunteer programs may include hosting parties, musical events, and games. "The list of possibilities is long and only limited by the interests and time of the volunteer," said Jayne Hinson. "We love it when volunteers identify a need and make suggestions for additional ideas for our volunteer program."

"We wanted them to know that we are thankful for their work on a daily basis and we truly appreciate you everyday," Hinson said during the gathering. For information about becoming a Palace Volunteer, contact Jayne Hinson or Jeannie Asberry at 615-699-2238.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

MONROE COUNTY CONSERVATION DISTRICT
2012 COST SHARE PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

The Monroe County Conservation District will be accepting requests for cost share funding under the Kentucky Soil Erosion and Water Quality Cost Share and Environmental Stewardship Program beginning Monday, May 14, and extending through Friday, June 15.

The Kentucky Soil Erosion and Water Quality Cost Share Program along with the Environmental Stewardship Program are created to help agricultural operations protect the soil and water resources of Kentucky. These programs were established by the Kentucky General Assembly in 1994 and 2000. Over the 17 years of these programs, approximately $120 million has been approved to plan, design and install much needed best management practices on approximately 14,200 farms to protect soil resources and water quality.

These annual cost share funds are administered by conservation districts with priority given to animal waste related problems and agricultural district participants where pollution problems have been identified. Initial funding for the program will be provided by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture and now also utilizes the Tobacco Master Settlement Agreement Funds.

These programs are administered at the state level by the Soil and Water Conservation Commission and the Kentucky Division of Conservation, located in Frankfort. Applications are ranked statewide and approved for funding based on available funds.

For more information stop by the conservation district office located at 201 W. Paige St. Tompkinsville Ky., 42167, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Contact Jarad Bartley or Cheryl Graham at 270-487-6589 ext. 3.

Brenda and Richard Walden, holding Survivor and Caregiver banners, march around the stadium track at the 2011 Monroe County Relay for Life during the Victory Walk which is part of the Relay event each year.

ritated and uneven around the edges — “all the classic symptoms,” she remembers.

She went to Dr. John Marsh, who removed the mole at his office in Glasgow and sent it for biopsy. The report came back “Stage IV melanoma” — the most deadly form of skin cancer.

“Surgery was the only option, since at that time, there was no type of chemotherapy for melanoma,” Brenda said. A large section of her calf was removed.

“They told me that, normally, this type of melanoma would spread to lymph nodes, but because it was below the knee, chances were better that the cancer would not reoccur — and everything was fine for 20 years,” she continued.

“Then in November 1999, I found a lump in my groin area that I knew shouldn’t be there,” she said. “Dr. Marsh told me he didn’t feel like it was bad but said ‘Let’s get it out anyway,’ and did surgery the next day, removing three lymph nodes. It came back showing the original melanoma in one of them.

“Dr. Marsh sent me to Dr. Hiram Polk, Jr. at Norton’s Hospital in Louisville and he removed 18 more lymph nodes in that area, followed by a profusion of chemo — what they called a megadose — through my left leg area. They discovered that the melanoma in two of the original lymph nodes had metastasized (spread).”

Swelling and fluid build-up became a problem so additional surgery was needed, and Brenda wasn’t able to start other treatment until January 2000.

Over those 20 years since Brenda’s first ordeal with cancer, a lot of advances had been made in treating melanoma, thanks to research.

“I was really lucky in that my oncologist, Dr. Donald Miller, had a special interest in melanoma,” she said. “I went to the James Graham Brown Cancer Center Louisville for for Dacarbazine (chemo) and Interleukin II treatments once a month for six months, and I would recommend the Center, and Dr. Miller, to anyone — they were great.”

After each treatment, she had an injection of Interleukin II each day for four days. Brenda said she gave herself the injections at first, but this was what they call a “nasty drug,” causing severe body aches, jerks and nausea.

“I guess that caused me to develop a complex, and I just couldn’t give myself those shots any more — Richard (her husband) had to do it,” she said. “In fact, he’s had to learn to do a lot of medical-type procedures over the years.”

Brenda, a loan file clerk at Edmonton State Bank who has been at the bank for 28 years, was able to continue working during this period, usually having to miss only three or four days following each monthly treatment.

Her doctors had warned her there was a high risk of reoccurrence, but at her check-up in April this year, the news again was good. Her surgeon told her that, after 12 years, the possibility of the cancer returning is very slim.

“I feel the results of all the cancer research — especially on Interleukin — has had a lot to do with it not returning,” Brenda emphasized.

“There’s also been so much development in testing, too, to detect cancer in the early stages — such as C-T and PET scans,” she said, adding that the PET scan is a nuclear medicine procedure that seeks out cancer cells.

“That’s one of the reasons I help with Relay for Life,” she said, adding that “the funds we raise for the American Cancer Society help finance this research.

“When I first became involved with Relay, I was cancer-free, but after my cancer returned, I really learned how important the research is.”

After her 1999 surgery, Brenda saw her oncologist and surgeon four times a year for several years, but now she only has to visit them once a year.

She said they told her that her melanoma was probably the result of sun exposure when she was a child. When she asked if her two sons should be tested for melanoma, she was told that it was too late to worry about them — she should be worrying about her six grandchildren, since most cases of melanoma are the result of exposure to sun or tanning beds as a child.

Noting that several local people have been diagnosed with melanoma in recent years, Brenda pointed out that it is very important to be careful about exposure to the sun or tanning beds and, when you must be out in the sun, to use sunscreen as recommended.

May is Skin Cancer Awareness and Prevention Month, she added, emphasizing that she hopes everyone will remember year-round the dangers related to skin cancer — especially for children.

Brenda remains active with the local Cancer Support Group, which meets each first and third Thursday at 5 p.m. at the Monroe County Medical Center. She encourages all cancer survivors to come to these meetings.

She also urges everyone — especially survivors and families whose lives have been touched by cancer — to come out to the local football stadium this Friday night and join the annual Relay for Life celebration. Activities start at 5:30, with the opening ceremony at 6:30.

RELAY FOR LIFE EVENT

ing a special ceremony later that night. Also during the evening, everyone is invited to stop by the Advocacy and Mission Delivery tents to learn more about the fight against cancer..

During the opening ceremonies, team captains and sponsors will be recognized, and a balloon launch also is planned.

Each survivor will be presented with a medallion and t-shirt and invited to join in a Victory Walk around the track, if he/she wishes to do so. Caregivers will be invited to join the cancer survivors during the second part of the walk.

All participants in the Relay, including all team members, will then go on the track for another lap. After that, team members (and anyone else who wants to join in) will continue walking, jogging or running around the track, with at least one member of each team expected to be on the track at all times (except during special ceremonies) until early the following morning.

During the evening, Relay team members will take part in a variety of events (several of which are also open to visitors). Among these are volleyball, “tator golf,” hula-hoop contest, Pictionary, and bunco.

A special feature of the annual Relay is scheduled to begin at 9 p.m., when the Luminary Ceremony will be held. Luminaries, circling the track, will be lit at this time, and the names of those in whose memory/honor these were purchased will be displayed during the ceremony.

At 10 p.m., a “Celebrate ... Remember ... Fight Back” ceremony will be held, celebrating the lives of those who have battled cancer and survived, remembering loved ones lost to the disease and fighting back by making a commitment to take up the fight against cancer.

After this ceremony, more live entertainment and various other games begin, continuing through most of the night.

Again this year, WTKY-FM (Tompkinsville’s radio station) will broadcast live at the Relay from 6 to 11 p.m.

The final event will be the Relay Awards Ceremony, scheduled to begin at 6 o’clock on Saturday morning. Announced will be the winning fund-raisers and winners of various contests held the previous evening.

Twenty-one teams are taking part in this year’s Relay, and all of them have been engaged in fund-raising activities over the past few months. The Relay event is considered a celebration of their successful fund-raising efforts, and awards will be presented to teams raising the most money in a number of area, as well as those who win the most “spirit points” during Relay Night events.

Many of the teams will set up campsites around the track at the football field and spend the night there. The campsites, decorated using the cartoon “Toon Out Cancer” theme of this year’s Relay, will also be judged for awards.

Until the 2 a.m. deadline, the teams will still be raising money and accepting donations as they compete for the honor of top fund-raiser for the Relay.

(Other funds raised during the summer also go toward the teams’ 2012 final totals, with $64,000 this year’s fund-raising goal for Monroe County.)

The 2012 Monroe County Relay for Life teams are:

BB Batters, Charlotte’s Web, Counting for a Cure (Tompkinsville Drug), Cubs for a Cure (TES), Dollars and Cents (Edmonton State Bank), Fighting Fergies, Friends 4-A-Cure 2014, HAM Henderson Masonic Lodge, Hammer Heroes, Kids 4-A-Cure (Erica’s Kids Connection), Monroe County Medical Center Relay for Life (two teams), Mighty Millie’s Mob, Mill Creek Crosstrainers (Mill Creek Baptist Church), Fighting Falcons (Monroe County High School), Brenda’s Buddies (Monroe County Middle School), Ole Glories (Monroe Health & Rehab), Paws for a Cure (4-H Dog Club), Stateline 4-H, Stitches, Inc. and the Ya-Ya’s.

The gates to the stadium will be closed at midnight. Anyone under age 18 who is not a member of a team or with a parent or guardian will be asked to leave at that time. The parking lot will be patrolled by law enforcement officers and there will be security on the track.

Relay rules prohibit smoking and alcohol at the event. Also prohibited are rollerblades, skateboards, bicycles and boomboxes.

In case of rain, the Relay events will be moved to the old high school gym.

Anyone wishing more information about the 2012 Relay for Life can call Wendy Smith at 427-6195 or Sandra Roderick at 427-7594 or email wsmith.mmec@gmail.com.

FOUNTAIN RUN BARBECUE FESTIVAL

Also taking place on Friday night again this year will be a Cake Walk (at 6 p.m.) and Talent Show (starting at 7 p.m.). The Talent Show is open to

A Fun Run for kids ages 2-12 starts immediately after the parade, along with children’s games, including a “greased pig chase” this year, a frog-

Afternoon activities include gospel singing by Nathan and Debbie Sullivan, karaoke by Kenny McIntyre and other music, raffles and other giveaways, and the annual Barbecue Sauce Contest.

Long Creek Bluegrass is scheduled to perform at 5 p.m., and the Silver Eagle Band will play again from 7 to 9 p.m., closing the festival activities.

CANDIDATE FORUM: HARBISON

two children, Kennedy (who will be a freshman this year and is 14) and Kaylee (an 11 year-old sixth grader). We are all members of the Edmonton Baptist Church. I graduated high school in 1977 from Metcalfe County and from Western Kentucky University in Spring 1982 with a major in Economics and minor in Business Administration and History. I also have a Rank 2 from WKU in Secondary Education.

What is your employment/work history? During high school, I worked on my grandpa’s farm and at Bowling Park in the summer time. I paid for my college by working pipeline construction in the summer time in Texas, Nebraska and Indiana. Since college I have worked 16 years in the Metcalfe County school system. I have also taught History and coached football for years in the Monroe County school system. My wife taught PE/Health and helped coach girls’ basketball in Monroe County for six years. I also taught History and helped coach football in Green County for six years.

What do you feel are two important issues related to this race - and what is your stance/position/plan to address them? We have to many kids reading at a low level in high school. We keep spending tons of money at the state level to try and fix the problem after it has happened. Let’s spend more of that money at the K-5 level where the classes are to big so the teachers can spend more individual time with the students that do not have help at home. Let’s fix problems instead of just putting bandages on them. Jobs-We need to start working as a district together and pool our resources in order to attract jobs. We have to stop looking at it as one county is getting the jobs but start looking at it as our district is getting the jobs. Together we can better solve this problem with more resources.

Why do you feel you are the best candidate for this position? I have worked in three of the four counties and know the concerns of the people in the county I haven’t worked. I know many of the people through sports, college, friends and family. I’m 52 years old and life’s experiences have prepared me for this opportunity. Nothing substitutes the experiences you have in life to help you deal with problems. I have twenty-six years experience in helping young people prepare for life. I am now ready to help the citizens of Kentucky deal with their every day problems.

What are your final words to the voters of Monroe County? I would appreciate your vote for the 53rd District Sate Representative. I will serve and ask for your opinions. A Representative is a representative to do the people’s will.

married to James Ford and they have one daughter Paisley; and Jan, who is married to Jarad Bartley and they have one daughter Jaylee. My parents were the late Johnie Gerald and Elizabeth Moore Gerald. Darrell’s parents are Burnell Turner Emberton and the late RH Emberton. I graduated from the Tompkinsville High School.

What is your employment/work history? After graduation I was secretary of Tompkinsville High School for 12 years. I worked for the Monroe County Clerk for 6 years before becoming Monroe Circuit Court Clerk.

What do you feel are two important issues related to this race - and what is your stance/position/plan to address them? Making sure that you, the citizens of Monroe County have the best Circuit Clerk’s office possible to come and conduct your business in a friendly, respectable, honest, efficient, and dedicated manner. I feel that you already have this type of office and I plan to keep it that way.

Being the Circuit Clerk is a very big responsibility and having knowledge about this office is an important issue.

Why do you feel you are the best candidate for this position? I have been in this office long enough to know people’s needs. I have the knowledge and capability to run this office, along with my dedicated staff. I have always been here for the citizens of Monroe County. My job has not stopped when I leave the office; I have helped many of you after hours. I will continue to help you whenever I can.

What are your final words to the voters of Monroe County? If elected, I will continue to be the best clerk that I can be. The Circuit Clerk’s Office will continue to be run in a friendly, respectable, honest, efficient, and dedicated manner. We will continue to treat everyone in a fair manner. So please go to the polls on Tuesday, May 22nd and vote for me Joyce Emberton so that I can continue being your Circuit Court Clerk.

from Ballard High School in Louisville, Ky. in 1973, and attended Vanderbilt University for two years. I am a member of Friendship Baptist Church where I teach Sunday school and serve in church leadership. I have served in disaster relief locally and nationally, and on five separate occasions I traveled to the Gulf Coast to assist after hurricane Katrina.

What is your work/employment history? My professional life has been varied, giving me rich and diverse experience in the private sector. I worked as a seismic engineering technician for 18 years from 1977-1994. I was in telecommunications from 1995-2000. I have been a health and wellness consultant from 2001 to the present.

What do you feel are two important issues related to this race - and what is your stance/position/plan to address them? 1) Jobs. The State can do a great deal to support an environment for the creation of (not provide) jobs, particularly for small business. The State should lower taxes and cut regulations for everyone, not be in the business of picking winners and losers. I will vote for less taxes, and tax and regulation reform. 2) The Budget. The Kentucky Constitution has a balanced budget provision, and yet every two years the legislature adds more debt. Our bonded debt is over $10 billion, and unfunded liabilities exceed $30 billion. This year in 2012 Frankfort added nearly $400 million in more debt, and the current incumbent for this district voted for this budget. I will never vote for more debt, and I will not participate in any State pension program. It’s not the taxpayer’s responsibility to provide my retirement.

Why do you feel you are the best candidate for this position? I am an effective and principled leader. For the past 6 years I have been the people’s advocate for conservatism in Frankfort. I have written legislation and have testified before both House and Senate legislative committees on that continued for several days, Dubree said. Young and Parke pointed the officers toward a neighbor of Martin's, Gary Gearlds, explaining that Gearlds had come to Martin's house earlier in the evening and that the two men had argued over the fact the Gearlds owed Martin money. They explained that they left the residence shortly after Gearlds, fearing that Gearlds might return and cause trouble.

Assistant Commonwealth Attorney Clay Hundley called Gearlds to the stand, learning that the two men had known each other for several years. Gearlds testified that Martin had called him that night looking for liquor, and that Martin had been drinking that night. Gearlds explained to Hundley that two other men were inside Martin's home when he arrived, noting that Max had called one of them "Jess." Gearlds explained that he had left Martin's home around 10:00 that night and that the two other men were still there.

That statement, which Gearlds had given detectives early in the investigation, was the first indication that something was wrong with the story provided by Young, who had told detectives that he and Parke left the residence around dark that night. Throughout the trial, Dubree testified that, from the very beginning, Young lied and attempted to mislead investigators.

The first big break in the case came when detectives were able to subpoena records from Bluegrass Cellular that tracked Young's movements the night of the murder. Using tech-better tell his story. Parke had left for a vacation in Myrtle Beach and Young was scared. Still, though faced with the possibility of the death penalty, Young still evaded the entire truth. It wasn't until detectives in the chair, nearly passed out. The recorded interviews with Young relate that Parke shot Martin in the back of the head with Martin's own handgun. Young said after the first shot that Martin looked at Parke with seeming disbelief before Parke emptied the rest of the gun's magazine into Martin.

Young told investigators that, in total, Parke shot Young seven or eight times. Autopsy results reported that a total of three projectiles were recovered from Martin's body, two from the head and one from the neck.

Young went on to tell detectives that after Parke finished shooting Martin, the two of them used a blanket that was in the chair behind the Martin's body, to pull him out into the floor, and that Parke then took Martin's wallet out of his pocket. The two men then went through the house for seven or eight minutes, according to Young's recorded statement, searching for a box of money that Martin allegedly kept in the house. Young recounted that Parke then went into the rear of the house and got a container of kerosene and dumped the flammable liquid throughout the kitchen and bedroom of the home before lighting the fuel in an attempt to burn all the physical evidence pertaining to their crimes.

Young went on to tell the detectives that he and Parke drove back to Parke's house, but that he drove by himself back to Hope Road to make sure that the house had burnt. When he saw that the house had not actually burnt, he returned to Parke's house and the pair went back to Martin's with a jug of gasoline to finish the job. Young told investigators he waited outside in the truck while Parke went back inside and again poured flammable liquid through the interior of the residence, finishing by pouring a trail out onto the porch where he again touched a flame to it. Young reported that, this time, there was an explosion that blew the front windows out of the house. He went on to say that he took Parke back home before going to his own house and going to bed.

Investigating Detective Michael Dubree discusses the case with Assistant Commonwealth Attorney Clay Hundley during the trial of Johnathan Young.

In summation at the close of the trial, Hundley told the jury that prosecutors were treading new ground with this case. He explained that although there were no pictures or video of the crime, there was a cyberspace picture of the murder and that the text messages were proof that, although Young didn't actually pull the trigger himself, he was the instigator to Martin's brutal homicide and that Parke was the instrument used to carry out the act.

The jury agreed with

He further instructed the jury that, on the other two charges, both being class B felonies, they could recommend a sentence of no less than 10 or more than 20 years, with the accused having to serve 85% of the sentence before he would be eligible for parole. He also informed the jury that they would need to recommend whether the three sentences should run concurrently or consecutively, and that Young would be given credit for time served.

When the jury returned,

Johnathan Young's attorney, Michael Bufkin, speaks to the jury pleading that "I'm not saying he's not guilty, but I'm saying he's not as guilty as Jessie Park" asking the group to find Young guilty of criminal facilitation of murder — not the charge of murder itself.

prosecutors in this case and found Young guilty of murder, 2nd degree arson and 1st degree robbery, ruling that there were aggravating circumstances in this murder case. "Aggravating circumstances" refers to the fact that the murder was committed during the commission of a robbery, and the fact that aggravating circumstances exist allows for a stiffer penalty for the defendant.

Judge Eddie Lovelace instructed the jury that on the charge of murder they could recommend a sentence of between 20 years and life in prison with the possibility of parole in 20 years, life without parole for 25 years, or life without parole possible at all.

they recommended to Lovelace that Young be sentenced to 25 years for the murder of Martin, and 20 years each on the charges of arson and robbery. They further recommended that the sentences run concurrently, making him eligible for parole in 20 years. Lovelace will pronounce final sentencing on Young, June 28, in Burkesville.

Detective Michael Dubree possibly summed the situation up best at the conclusion of the trial when he said; "Nobody wins in these things. What brings some closure to one family, tears another apart. In the end, one family loses a father, another a son."

Johnathan Young listens as his attorney presents the Defense's closing statements before the jury adjourned returning several hours later to find him guilty of murder, arson and robbery.

the late Sandra Holland Patterson. I grew up in the Akersville community near Fountain Run. I am married to Todd Burgess, the son of Jerry and Judy Burgess of Gamaliel. We have two daughters — Terin Burgess Coe and Gabrielle Burgess. Terin is married to Jeb Coe. They have one son, Jesse, and are expecting a baby girl any day. Gabrielle is now officially a junior at the University of Kentucky. I graduated from Gamaliel High School in 1985. I went to the University of Louisville from 1985-1986 and I graduated from Western Kentucky University in 1991 with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Dental Hygiene.

What is your work/employment history? I worked several jobs while in college, including summers at sewing factories. I was also a substitute teacher and relief postmaster while taking college classes at night. Since college I have worked for three dentists: Dr. R.I. Rayles, Glasgow/

Tompkinsville from June 1991 to February 1992; Dr. C. Sue VanBlaricum, Lafayette, TN from September 1991 to February 1997; Dr. Mark A. Kuzma, Glasgow from March 1997 to present.

What do you feel are two important issues related to this race - and what is your stance/position/plan to address them? The Circuit Clerk's office is an extremely important office and has much more responsibilities than most people realize. I think it is extremely important that clerk knows all the different aspects of these duties. I think the clerk's office should be run in a professional manner, while still maintaining a pleasant atmosphere for both the employees and those who have business there. Also, I plan to have Saturday hours in the Clerk's office. In addition, I hope to have at least one day a week with extended hours for those people who work out of the county.

Why do you feel you are the best candidate for this position? I feel I am the best candidate for the Circuit Clerk's position because I passed a very difficult Kentucky Circuit Clerk's Examination on my first attempt. My opponent definitely has more experience as she has held this office for 24 years. But, what I lack in experience I will make up for with hard work and dedication. I will do my best to serve all the citizens of Monroe County equally.

What are your final words to the voters of Monroe County? The Circuit Court Clerk's office belongs to you, the people of Monroe County. It is for you to decide who you want to represent you in this office. I want to be your Circuit Court Clerk! I will work hard to maintain a professional, yet pleasant atmosphere in the Clerk's office. If you are willing to give me the opportunity to serve you, then please vote Kerrie Burgess for Monroe County Circuit Court Clerk!

What is your work/employment history? I have been a licensed insurance agent since 1997 and a co-owner and Vice President of Rowland Insurance Agency since 1999.

What do you feel are two important issues related to this race - and what is your stance/position/plan to address them?

Improving the Economy, Creating Jobs — The best way to attract and create jobs is to reduce taxes and stop wasteful government spending while improving our schools and building better roads to give our community a competitive economic advantage; and Cutting Wasteful Government Spending and Debt — To get our economy moving, state government must tighten its belt just like families are doing now. I support a top to bottom review all government agencies to get rid of wasteful spending so services are more efficient and effective for taxpayers.

Why do you feel you are the best candidate for this position? As a life-long resident of Monroe County, small business owner, husband and father, I will be a strong voice for the concerns of this community. Improving the local economy and creating more good paying jobs is my top priority. I am the strongest advocate for our conservative values — and have the endorsements of the Kentucky Right to Life and the National Rifle Association.

What are your final words to the voters of Monroe County? It has been an honor and privilege to serve as your State Representative in Frankfort. I will continue to fight for government that's accountable to the people. Let's keep this seat in the hands of a Monroe County Republican. Lyons selected to participate in Rogers Scholars summer program

Monroe County High School student Mary Madison Lyons, daughter of Kevin and Regena Lyons of Tompkinsville, has been named a 2012 Rogers Scholar and will be eligible to receive exclusive scholarship opportunities from 16 colleges and universities.

Lyons was selected by The Center for Rural Development to build her leadership and entrepreneurial skills as the region's next generation of leaders and entrepreneurs at this summer's Rogers Scholars program.

Rogers Scholars, an intensive one-week summer youth leadership program, brings together rising high school juniors from across southern and eastern Kentucky for a one-of-a-kind experience that past participants often describe as "life changing."

"The Center believes in giving young people in our region a chance to receive leadership and scholarship opportunities so they can seize their potential and become effective, skilled leaders," Lonnie Lawson, president and CEO of The Center, said. "It is our goal that many of these students will return to southern and eastern Kentucky to build their careers and transform this region for years to come."

Rogers Scholars—The Center's flagship youth program—was built on a mission started by U.S. Congressman Harold "Hal" Rogers (KY-05) that "no young person should have to leave home to find his or her future."

Now in its 15th year, the Rogers Scholars program is planned, coordinated, and supervised entirely by The Center and its staff. Most activities take place on the grounds of The Center in Somerset and other sites in the Lake Cumberland region.

"We are looking forward to meeting the 2012 Class of Rogers Scholars and working with each participant to develop his or her skills as the region's future leaders and entrepreneurs," Delaney Stephens, youth programs coordinator and community liaison for The Center, said.

"The Rogers Scholars program emphasizes the development of technological skills and builds in participants a sense of leadership, an entrepreneurial spirit, and a commitment to rural Kentucky," Stephens added.

During the program, Lyons will get to meet and hear presentations from some of the region's top business leaders and entrepreneurs; complete a community service project; and receive professional, hands-on instruction from leading experts in one of three top in-demand careers: healthcare, engineering, and video production.

The program, which is supported solely through financial contributions, fundraising events, and program sponsors, is provided free of charge to participants and their families.

City of Tompkinsville discusses employee overtime

Several city employees were present at the April 26 meeting of the Tompkinsville City Commission to discuss issues such as on-call time and overtime. According to the Commission minutes received from City Clerk Jennifer Arms, City employees spoke about the weekend on-call shift. In the past, employees noted, if they were on call and came in to check the sewer pumps, they were paid for two hours overtime. The personnel policy states that these employees should instead take off two hours during the week to keep overtime pay down. Employees were asked to follow the personnel policy but refused noting “the price of gas was a hardship for them to return to town twice during the weekend and to not be paid overtime.” Commissioner Scotty Turner made a motion to amend the policy to give overtime for two hours to the employee who checks the sewer pumps on the weekends. Also included in Turner’s motion was to reimburse Ricky Birge and Eddie Bennett for two hours of overtime. In other items of business, Mayor Jeff Proffitt noted that no health insurance bids were received but that Gary Rowland with Rowland Insurance noted he could have a quote ready the following week which he thought would offer a health insurance option. Gil Short with America’s Health Team also spoke to the Commission, offering a fixed indemnity plan and Haley Simpson of Kentucky Farm Bureau also emailed that her quote wasn’t ready. The Commissioners agreed to table the matter and discuss it at a special called meeting. Code Enforcement Officer Kerry Schabacker also came before the Commission to discuss the terms for property violations, once a violation is posted how long before citations begin. Schabacker, reported that he had spent time with the Glasgow Code Officer learning about the different rules and regulations. At Glasgow, that officer uses his discretion as to the terms of violation. Commissioner Turner made a motion to give Code Enforcement Officer the authority to determine the terms of a violation. The Commission also: — approved the second reading on the Building Code ordinance; — discussed a proposed assisted living facility planning to be built across from Wal-Mart and the fact that City Manager Harold Graves and County Judge-executive Tommy Willett had met with Kathy and Jerry Graves about providing services. Any action was tabled until a cost estimate was provided for the project; — discussed the employment of Police Officer Tyler

Shaw. Mayor Proffitt asked if the Commission felt Shaw should be under the normal six month probation period since he is already a certified police officer or if the City should be contributing to his retirement. The Commission decided to treat Officer Shaw like any other new employee, after his six months is up the City will then begin to contribute to his retirement; — approved an amended ordinance concerning the ethics board. In the original ordinance there was a typo in the section about the length of terms for the board requiring five members. The amended ordinance only requires three members. The Mayor recommended Carolyn Emmert (one year), Rex Bartley (two years) and Deanna York (three years) for the Board and they were approved; — after a closed session, the Commission agreed to rehire Fred Parr for the Recycling Plant Manager at $10.50 per hour. He would be required to serve a six-month probationary period; — approved raising the pay rate of Sherri Proffitt to $9.25 per hour and a minimum of 24 hours per week now that she has received her Class II Water Treatment Plant Operator Certification. Proffitt told the group that she had been promised $9.50 per hour and Mayor Proffitt noted he would investigate further and report back to the Commission; — discussed that Danny Joe Stinson was requesting more hours than the agreed upon 16 hours per week. However, the Commission agreed to keep him at 16 hours per week at this time; — heard a report that Scotty’s had started paving the city streets. Also heard a report that the Commission had decided not to pave the tennis courts but revisit patching the cracks instead; — discussed heavy trash pick up program and problems experienced this year. Proffitt suggested that Schabacker, Joel England and Commissioner Sherry Crawford have a meeting to come up with a policy before the fall heavy trash pick-up; — heard a report that 93 volunteers picked up 103 bags of trash during the PRIDE clean-up; — discussed the e-recycling event at Wal-Mart and the fact that through over $5,000 in donations, new Christmas decorations and 14 poles and two swags have been purchased; — approved changing the May meeting until May 31; and — heard that the certificate of origin for the Humvees were mailed and are the only documentation needed to be able to use the Humvees. Turner made a motion to start using the Humvees as soon as they were insured.
